Vision

To be an internationally recognized centre of excellence in agricultural research and advise, and in providing objective, timely and accurate agricultural market information to the benefit and prosperity of producers, agribusinesses and policy makers.

What can AMT contribute to your company?

The simple and short answer is:

Relevant INFORMATION!!

The rapid pace of change, both in society and business, is visible all around

The data and information used as a basis for decision-making is in serious danger of becoming out-dated and distorted

Constant monitoring of the business industry and data analysis ensure that the information is timely and relevant

Generating new data is easy – getting this to be of relevance for strategic management or decision making purposes can both be timely and/or costly

Our Aim:

Is to provide you with expert views and insights as far as the latest market trends are concerned.

In addition, we specialise in short term market forecasting

This will not only save you time and money, but it will improve your understanding of an ever-changing agricultural market environment which is paramount in terms of your decision making

Vision

To be an internationally recognized centre of excellence in agricultural research and advise, and in providing objective, timely and accurate agricultural market information to the benefit and prosperity of producers, agribusinesses and policy makers.

CORE COMPETENCIES

Provision of information:

Accurate and timely information about the marketing environment is vitally important for the success of any business in a market that is characterized by risk and uncertainty. Such information does not only provide the necessary tools to make informed decisions about business propositions, but also assist in improving the core competencies of the work force that is vital to generate profits.

The abolishment of the previous agricultural marketing boards in South Africa brought about an information gap on how agricultural markets behave at a time that information is more crucial than in the past. Producers, agribusinesses, policy makers and numerous other agricultural groupings all currently experience a need to obtain knowledge on what drives supply, demand and prices of agricultural commodities in a deregulated and dynamic environment.

Additionally, the need also exist to know what factors could in future influence agricultural commodity prices. AMT specializes in the analysis and forecasting of agricultural markets thereby answering precisely in these needs.

Undoubtedly, a lot of efficiency is lost in the work place by the fact that information is gathered in an ad hoc and fragmented manner. By providing a one-stop-shop for agricultural market information AMT provides a firm basis to make informed decisions.

Since timing and accuracy of information is vital for profit making decisions AMT publishes weekly, monthly and annual industry reports. This significantly improves the efficiency of decision makers, which in turn entails that they could concentrate on the core activities of the business. AMT therefore does not only provide a sound marketing information system, but also contributes to the well-being of the agricultural sector in South Africa.
